REPORT

OF THE

Superintending School Committee.

To the citizens of Loudon:—

The Superintending School Committee respectfully submit the following report :—

DISTRICT NO. 1.—WHITE.

Summer term taught by Miss Fannie A. Ham.

Miss Ham came to me highly recommended, both as a scholar and teacher. At the commencement of the term the school appeared well and it seemed as though good work might be done. But at the close I was greatly disappointed. They had not been thorough in the studies pursued. We claim that a pupil should understand one lesson before he passes to another. The order was poor.

Winter term, May E. Adams, of Pembroke, teacher.

Miss Adams took a deep interest in her school and labored hard to accomplish good results. Those scholars who were willing to obey, and cared to learn, made excellent progress. There are a few in this school who do not go to learn, but merely for a good time in general, and of such we can expect but little.

DISTRICT NO. 2.—YELLOW.

Miss Nellie Brown, teacher of Summer term.

Miss Brown passed a fine examination, and we found not only fit to instruct, but to govern those placed under her charge. She has the faculty of imparting knowledge to her scholars in a clear and concise manner, so that each topic was fully understood before leaving it. We noticed some fine scholars in this school. I think the school a perfect success in every respect, and I believe it met the approbation of all in the district.

Winter term, Miss Mary E. Bailey, Concord, teacher.

This school was in a prosperous condition when Miss Bailey entered upon her duties ; but for want of energy and perseverance, and the power to govern, the scholars in a short time seemed to rule. As her services were found unprofitable by me, she was dismissed from her labors.

DISTRICT NO. 3.—VILLAGE.

PRIMARY.

Miss Mattie A. Lake, of Pembroke, teacher.

Both terms were under the instruction of Miss Lake. This school is one that demands patience and hard labor, as well as natural adaptedness for the task on the part of the teacher. The importance of securing a teacher in this primary department so peculiarly fitted for her duties as Miss Lake, cannot be over-estimated, and during this term she has fully sustained her reputation as a teacher and disciplinarian. She deserves especial commendation for her zeal and devotion to her work. Great interest was shown in reading and spelling. Examination was well attended by the parents and others.

GRAMMAR.

Fall term taught by Miss Helen Batchelder.

This teacher was abundantly qualified for the situation. Miss Batchelder has had experience, is self-possessed and has the ability to accomplish what she undertakes. Could the parents of the scholars visit the school and see for themselves the earnest spirit of the teacher, and her devotion to the interests of the school, any prejudice they may have had would have been expelled. The examination exercises were satisfactory. Nearly every scholar had a recitation or declamation.

Winter term taught by Miss Hattie E. Sawyer, Nashua.

At the first visit your committee found in this school a good degree of enthusiasm and healthy school spirit, both in teacher and scholars. The arduous duties devolving upon this teacher were faithfully performed, and were appreciated by all acquainted with the school. Discipline good and satisfactory. This school recited mostly by topic, and we found they generally understood all they had passed over.

DISTRICT NO. 4.—CLOUGH HILL.

Summer term, Lilla A. Merrill, Pittsfield, teacher.

This is Miss Merrill's first term. This school is very small, both in size and number ; but this teacher seemed to interest them, and at the close we could see that they had learned quite fast. I think Miss Merrill possesses qualifications which entitle her to a much more responsible situation as a teacher, and to a larger school.

Winter term, Miss Alice O. Ladd, Chichester, teacher.

This school, under its very excellent and experienced teacher, went on steadily improving and prospering. The order was perfect, without any constraint, showing the entire confidence of the pupils in the teacher and the teacher in the pupils. As an instructress Miss Ladd was equally successful. Her instruction was clear and to the point, and her pupils were made to comprehend principles before passing over them. There are some fine scholars in this school, and good improvement was made. Entire satisfaction was given throughout the district.

DISTRICT NO. 5.—BROWN.

Winter term taught by Miss Mary L. Brown, of Candia.

This district, as usual, had but one term during the year. This is Miss Brown's second term in this district. This school is small in number, but the progress made and thoroughness noticed in the several branches, justly entitle Miss Brown to the appreciation and thanks of the district.

DISTRICT NO. 6.—LOWER RIDGE.

Miss Susie Smith, teacher of Summer term.

This district may well account themselves fortunate in securing the services of so able and judicious a teacher. Everything about the school was pleasant, and its whole tone and aspect one of happiness and duty. This teacher not only loves knowledge herself, but has the happy faculty of imparting it to others in a clear and candid manner, and the power to make a love of knowledge in others. The school was a success, and evinced a steady mental and moral growth. Particular attention was given to spelling.

Fall and Winter terms taught by Miss Mary Martin, of Concord.

Notwithstanding the change of teachers, which is sometimes a serious hindrance to the prosperity of a school and often amounts to a fatality, this school, under the instruction of Miss Martin, made commendable improvement and afforded ample testimony of the ability of the teacher. Miss Martin shrinks from no hard work and shuns no difficulties. With or without appreciation she does her whole work. The order was perfect. Rhetorical exercises very interesting.

DISTRICT NO. 7.—MOORE.

Both terms taught by Miss Hattie C. Colby.

This teacher seemed to be impressed with the fact that work was essential to success in the school-room. The pupils largely caught the spirit of work, and the final examination showed that much had been accomplished. The scholars were all prompt to answer, and the order was perfect. This teacher governs her pupils by love, instead of fear. A large number of visitors were present at the close, and all seemed to take great interest in the exercises. I think the district could do no better than to secure the services of this teacher in the future.

DISTRICT NO. 8.—OSBORNE.

Summer term. Miss Georgia S. Powell, teacher.

Though young and inexperienced, Miss Powell applied herself assiduously to her duties, and her efforts were crowned with creditable success. Most of the classes showed readiness, accuracy and thorough drilling ; and your committee was confident that the work of the term was faithfully and conscientiously performed.

Winter term taught by Lilla A. Merrill.

On account of bad weather and bad traveling I did not visit this school at the close, but it was reported to me by Mr. Hodgdon (an experienced teacher), as follows : " Considering the age of the pupils, the examination was creditable to both pupils and teacher. The improvement in reading and arithmetic was very marked, the order good, and with experience I think Miss Merrill will make a model teacher. I think this term can be pronounced a success. Declamations and dialogues good. There were thirty-five visitors present, showing a good degree of interest."

DISTRICT NO. 9.—HILL.

Summer term. Georgia L. Foster, teacher

This teacher has had but little experience in teaching. She is a thorough scholar, and her aim is to have her scholars advance slow and thorough, and in this she succeeded. Order and system prevailed in every exercise. The school was well attended, at the close, by parents and citizens, and general satisfaction was given in this district.

Winter term. Newell W. Lovering, teacher.

Mr. Lovering has had some experience in teaching, and possesses the qualifications for a good instructor. He labored with an earnest zeal for the welfare of those under his charge. Reading was made a specialty, and allow me to say no better improvement was made in this branch in any other school in town. Rhetorical exercises at the close were entertaining and profitable. This district has a very pleasant school-room. It has been recently painted and papered. Perhaps it might be proper to mention that this teacher belongs in the district.

DISTRICT NO. 10.—PLEASANT STREET.

Miss Emma E. Curtice, of Concord, teacher.

Both terms were taught by Miss Curtice. She was found to be a thorough scholar, and in teaching did not confine herself closely to the text-books, but called into service whatever might apply to the matter in hand, wherever it might be found. She is limited to no book in elucidating the text of what she is teaching, in order that her instruction may be as broad as her requirements will make it; hence nothing but good improvement could be made, which was plainly shown at the close of the terms. A class of beginners in Colburn's Arithmetic rank No. 1. If some of the parents in this district would make an effort to visit the school at least examination day instead of keeping their children out, it would be more for their interest and a great benefit to those kept at home. I think some of the young ladies in this school need to be instructed in manners and morals more than books.

DISTRICT NO. 11.—NEW DOVER.

Summer term. Mrs. Edna Copp, Barnstead, teacher.

In many respects this school has given satisfaction to your committee and parents. The discipline has been very good, and the scholars carefully instructed. At the examination the school made a very good appearance. One great error in this school is the manner in which the scholars speak. One can hardly hear them across the room without giving close attention.

Winter term. Miss Sarah E. Clarke, Pittsfield, teacher.

Miss Clarke's record as a teacher was a sufficient guaranty that this school would be well cared for, and the closing examination showed conclusively that there had been earnest work on the part of both teacher and scholars. Special pains was taken in reading. In fact, every point was so fully taken up and clearly explained that there was no chance for the committee to ask a single question. She also succeeded in correcting the error spoken of in the previous term to a certain extent.

DISTRICT NO. 12.—UPPER RIDGE.

Both terms taught by Ida B. Sleeper.

I think this district very wise in securing this teacher for so many terms in succession. She seems to be the right person and in the right place. Where we have equally as good teachers at home as abroad, I think we should give them the preference. Excellent order, and good progress made.

DISTRICT NO. 13.—CATE.

Summer term. Miss Nellie Hunt, Concord, teacher.

This was Miss Hunt's first attempt at teaching. There was but little improvement made during the term. Order very poor.

Winter term. M. Lizzie Whittemore, teacher.

Miss Whittemore is one of our best teachers in town, and I can add nothing to what has been said during the years in the past. She is perfectly at home in the school-room. Owing to the bad traveling your committee did not visit the school at its close. We doubt not but what perfect satisfaction was given.
